Local seniors feel pinch of tight service budgets

By ALISON ALOISIO

Bethel area senior citizens were hit hard by the budget cuts last week, following the discontinuation of the Free Transit bus service.

At a shop in the town, and by the Goodwill of Bethel.

Goodwill had called the weekly bus to Bethel to meet seniors.

Her son drove her to Bethel last Friday, a day off from work, but she doesn't know what she will do for the bus ride.

In a letter to Bethel's senior citizens, Susan E. Pitt, general manager, said a loss of state and local revenues has resulted in the loss of the bus service.

Senior citizens are helped on the bus in this area last year. Some seniors used it to do errands in town and to go to the Bethel Area

Senior Center. Others rode all the way to Bethel to go grocery shopping.

WAAV is now the effect of the budget cuts at the Methodist Church in Bethel. Vivian Howe, senior services manager, said an increase in people used to eat at the church on Thursdays.

That's how cut in half, because they could no longer afford to eat there. She had concerns about whether the bus could remain open for the next year, Howe said.

We'll have to look at it. We may have to stop it.

She is a member of the church, and she said she doesn't have a choice but to leave. She was able to get a ride to Bethel from a neighbor last week.

Marcel Fench lives in Sudbury

Village in Bethel. She doesn't eat much at the church, but she did ride the bus to Bethel to shop at the Maple Store.

"There we are, left stranded. There are people here who are really in need. I can't emphasize that enough," she said.

There has been some discussion of setting up a car pool with volunteer drivers to transport people.

On Lake Christopher Neighbors press town to improve beach safety

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Woodstock officials are trying to figure out how to go about making the town beach on Lake Christopher safer.

The move follows three recent accidents at the beach on Lake Road. In the most serious, an illegal parked car slipped out of gear and rolled onto a young child on the beach.

The youngest, Darren Baker, 2 of Newry, was not seriously injured, but two residents who near the beach told the town selectmen last week that they were concerned about the potential serious accident -- caused either by an automobile or power boat.

According to Tom O'Rourke, who lives across from the beach, other recent accidents included a person out of fishing into the beach, which was mowed up at the time and a power boat with the raft as a pickup point, endangering some people in the water.

On Lake Road, the town has been out at the place for as long as 10 years, but it's not enough. Much

Legal thicket slows Andover's search for water source

By ALISON ALOISIO

Efforts to secure a new Andover water source in time to avoid fines from the Environmental Protection Agency have been delayed by legal issues.

The Andover Water District needs to find the lowest-cost plan to replace the current water system, which relies on a reservoir supply that does not comply with the Safe Drinking Water Act.

The Public Utilities Commission had hoped testing for water on the late 1990s -- John Fox's property on the outskirts of town -- would begin in June. But arrangements with Fox have been delayed by the need to communicate through lawyers and district trustees' questions regarding legal implications of a proposed agreement.

Fox, through his attorney Richard

Spencer, recently laid out six terms for allowing the district to use his property.

Spencer also said Fox might not charge AWD for the use of the property.

District trustees met on July 25 to consider the proposal. Most of the discussion centered on Fox's stipulation that if he grants an agreement, there would be an understanding from AWD to replace (Fox's personal water) source should it be compromised in the future for any reason without a determination as to causation.

Spencer noted in his letter that it was unlikely Fox's own water would be compromised by AWD well digging, since it is on higher land.

But trustee Fred Emerson said he

Briefly

Two accidents, no serious injuries

BETHEL--Two accidents within a half hour of each other Monday morning resulted in vehicle damage but no serious injuries. Bart Currie, 23, of Milford was traveling east on Route 2 near the MDOT garage when he fell asleep. His pickup truck left the road and went into the ditch. Currie, who was wearing a seat belt, received bumps and bruises. A short time later, Terrence J. Mays, 26, of Freeport was headed south on Main Street when he tried to turn left onto Railroad Street on the wrong side of the traffic island. His car was struck by another driven by Nathan Brown, 24, of Bethel, who was headed north on Main Street. Both were wearing seat belts. Mays was arrested for operating with a suspended license.

Ouelette variance denial stands

NEWRY--The denial of David and Pauline Ouelette's request for a variance to build a house on their Bear River lot still stands, following Appeals Board member Rockie Graham's affirmation Monday of her earlier "no" vote. The Planning Board originally termed the lot not buildable, because it did not have sufficient river frontage. The Appeals Board heard the appeal on July 24, and a tie 2-2 vote initially denied the Ouelette's request. But Graham said she might reconsider her vote, depending on a determination of whether boundary lines of the three total Ouelette lots could be redrawn to give the questionable lot enough frontage. The total frontage, however, was insufficient. Graham said she believed undue hardship -- a requirement for a variance -- still had not been proven, and the couple should have known the ordinance requirement when they bought the lots. She said responsibility for the Ouelette's confusion regarding town shoreland ordinances also rested partly with Steve Wight, the former owner of the lots. Wight said that at the time of the sale he was unaware that changes in the ordinance had affected the lots. "Being first selectman, he should have known," said Graham. "He shirked his duty." Chairman David Schlieper told the couple they now have two options -- take legal action, or wait to see if the town changes the ordinance as part of an updating process. David Ouelette said after the meeting he is not sure what they will do.

Playhouse appeal denied

WOODSTOCK--The Appeals Board last week denied a variance to a couple who wanted to keep their children's playhouse within 15 feet of Lake Christopher. The decision followed a hearing on the matter involving Cesidio and Sally Tessicini of Miami, Fla., who placed the 12-by-eight-foot prefabricated building near the shore last fall. Town zoning prohibits structures within 100 feet of the shoreline. The Planning Board earlier turned down an after-the-fact permit application. The Appeals Board suggested that if the house is moved back beyond the 100-foot zone, an after-the-fact permit could be issued. Town Manager Vern Maxfield said he expects the Tessicinis to take the issue back to the Planning Board.

Selectmen skeptical of fire group

WOODSTOCK--The Concord Pond Campers Association last week proposed organizing a firefighters' group at the pond, located in the northeast corner of Woodstock near the Peru town line. But selectmen said it could mean a serious liability problem for the camp owners if someone gets hurt fighting a fire. Association president Roland Pelletier said the group wanted to ask the town for hoses and a portable pump. The proposal stemmed from a recent fire at the pond during which neighbors used a garden hose to keep the flames down until the fire department arrived. Selectman Percy Monk said the best procedure would be for someone to call in a fire as soon as possible and be available to direct firefighters as they arrive.

Tax rate holds steady

WOODSTOCK--Woodstock's tax rate is expected to remain stable -- at $18.82 per thousand -- for the third year in a row. Tax bills are scheduled to go out in about a week, according to Town Manager Vern Maxfield.

Garden clippings going to Greenwood

PARIS--The Save the Garden Committee last week negotiated a deal with Richard McLaughlin that would keep him as caretaker of his late father's famous garden and allow him to take clippings from its plants for the next two years, according to a report in the Boston Globe. McLaughlin has been moving some of the plants to a plot of land in Greenwood. The committee wants to preserve the garden at the South Paris site, and is trying to raise enough money to purchase it. McLaughlin's late father, Bernard, directed in his will that the South Paris property be sold to the highest bidder, with the proceeds going to three Maine orphanages.

Alder Brook bridge may be closed

GREENWOOD--Fourteen citizens last week told selectmen they oppose a proposal to close the Alder Brook Bridge, located behind the town common. The closing had been recommended by the Maine Department of Transportation because the bridge is in poor condition, and selectmen were concerned the town could be liable for accidents. There is some confusion regarding whether the bridge had been closed by MDOT in 1989 and decided back to the town, and then discontinued by a vote of townspeople. Selectmen will research the bridge's ownership. If it is still owned by the town, the issue will be taken up at a Town Meeting to decide if the bridge should be fixed, at an estimated cost of $40,000 to $50,000, or abandoned.

New Head Start application process

PARIS--Parents in Oxford County must now contact Community Concepts to get their children enrolled in Head Start. In the past, parents of children aged 3 were contacted by the staff regarding application. The contact was made possible because certain records could be examined at local town offices. That practice is no longer allowed. For more information call 743-7716 ext. 114.

Dolly Copp celebrates 75th

GORHAM, N.H.--The Dolly Copp Campground in the White Mountain National Forest will celebrate its 75th anniversary from Aug. 10-18. Activities will include evening programs, guided wagon rides, a square dance, a fiddler's contest, a classic auto show, field games, a parade and other special events. For more information call 603-466-2713 or stop by the Androscoggin Ranger Station on Route 16 in Gorham.

Biking/walking conference planned

PORTLAND--More than 500 transportation planners and alternative transportation advocates will be in Portland next month for a conference on biking and walking. Share the Road is a series of events including bike tours, walks, art happenings, a parade and other public events which will coincide with Pro Bike/Pro Walk '96, the ninth international conference on bicycle and pedestrian programs. Share the Road is organized by a coalition of more than a dozen statewide bicycle and pedestrian advocacy groups to heighten public awareness of Maine issues related to biking and walking. For more information call 207-775-2802.

Pipeline gets initial approval

PORTLAND--The Portland Natural Gas Transmission System has received preliminary approval from the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission for the construction of a proposed $271-million interstate natural gas pipeline project. The FERC report addresses a wide variety of non-environmental issues, including the need for the project and the proposed rates and terms and conditions of service. Final FERC approval is subject to completion of an Environmental Impact Statement. PGNTS is a proposed 242-mile, 20-inch natural gas pipeline that will operate between an interconnection with TransCanada PipeLines at the U.S./Canada border near Jay, Vermont and an interconnection with Tennessee Gas Pipeline in Haverhill, Mass.

FROM THE

Bethel Town Office

The topic is volunteers again. It is high time the Capital Improvement Plan (CIP) committee be mentioned. This group is involved in the budgeting process. The committee's function is to recommend a plan for capital spending. It is their responsibility to warn the selectmen and the Budget Committee of large expenses on the horizon. The ultimate goal is the creation of a forward-looking plan that protects the town from financial upheaval associated with large expenses.

The type of expenses the CIP committee mainly plans for are purchases of new or replacement vehicles, heavy equipment and buildings. At times, they look at more unique items like the land purchase. The creation of the plan is a time-consuming process. The committee members meet with department heads and review the scheduled large purchases. Town-owned facilities and equipment are inspected. The committee categorizes the condition of currently held assets and separates wishful thinking from necessary purchases.

It is important to note that the plan they create is used by the selectmen and Budget Committee to make recommendations for Town Meeting approval. The capital improvements presented by the CIP committee were endorsed at the recent Town Meeting. Improvements scheduled for fiscal year 1997 are the purchase of sand spreading equipment, radio network replacement, building upgrades and road improvements.

The Capital Improvement Plan committee is involved in a demanding process. The members must make difficult decisions. We thank and salute them for their demonstrated good citizenship. Their time and effort are the building blocks of the Town of Bethel's economic stability.

Tips from the

When towing a skier, a board or other similar device there must be an additional person in the water craft, in addition to the driver, who is 12 years of age or older and is in position to continually observe the person or persons being towed.

No person may operate at greater than headway speed in the water safety zone (200' from shoreline), in a marina or an approved anchorage, except while actively fishing or dropping off a water skier.

As of May 1, 1996 all water craft must have a Type 1, 2, or 3 wearable flotation device for each person in that water craft. Children ten years of age or younger must wear flotation devices at all times.

Your Community Lakes Association is open to everyone. To become a member send $10 annual dues to Ellie Andrews, 162 N. Main Street, Bryant Pond, ME 04219.

Jackson-Silver Auxiliary

On Aug. 1, Jackson-Silver Unit, American Legion Auxiliary, met for a planning session, and to report that five members and three junior members had attended the monthly birthday party at the Western Maine Veterans Home in South Paris. They presented a gift to the resident whose birthday was being celebrated. The residents certainly seemed to enjoy the girls, who visited and brought them some pictures they had colored and presented to them.

The next activity is the Musical Supper on Aug. 13, with dancing music by the Richard Felt Band. The menu will feature mostly Italian dishes, with pies for dessert. There will be the usual door prizes.

Aug. 15 is the date for the annual family picnic of the Post and Unit. Hot dogs, hamburgers and corn on the cob will be furnished. Members are urged to bring something to round out the meal, such as a salad or dessert.

A regular meeting will take place on Sept. 5. Another Musical Supper will be on Sept. 10, featuring chicken pie and dance music by The Parisians. The regular meeting on Sept. 19 will be preceded by a music program planned by Mary Lyon.

Among other events for October, there will be a card party on Oct. 22 with proceeds earmarked for the Special Olympics. As usual, it will start at 1 p.m. with pie and beverages served before play starts. Door prizes will be drawn throughout the afternoon.

From the Bethel Police log:

Intruder only wanted curling iron

At 8:27 p.m. on August 2 a Bethel Park Apartments resident asked that police go to another apartment and have anyone who might be there leave. She said the door was wide open. She and the occupant of the apartment, who was in jail for the weekend, had agreed no one was to be in the apartment in his absence. Police found a woman in the apartment, who said she was retrieving her curling iron. The complainant spoke with her and explained the situation.

Thursday, Aug. 1

At 3:42 a.m. police observed an intoxicated male walking across the street near the intersection of Clark and Main streets. He was then observed loitering on the corner of the same intersection. The man said he was not currently residing any place in particular. There were no warrants on him. The officer advised him to stay out of the roadway and sent him on his way.

Saturday, Aug. 3

At 12:15 a.m. police received a report of a fight in the parking lot of the Backstage Restaurant. Police and a state trooper found on arrival the subjects had been separated by other patrons. After some discussion both parties agreed to depart. The men were fighting over the alleged infidelity of one man's girlfriend with the other man.

At 1:20 a.m. Joseph W. Smith of Williamston, Mich., was stopped on Route 2 and summonsed for speeding (70 miles per hour in a 50 zone) and operating without a license (expired May 1996). He was advised to park his vehicle.

Monday, Aug. 5

At 1:58 a.m. police received a report of a subject behind Mahosuc Really being loud and profane, throwing beer bottles, etc. The officer arrived and observed the subjects for a few minutes, identifying three out of four of them. He then turned on his flashlight, and they fled into the woods. The owner of Wild River Realty requested that a vehicle owned by one of the subjects be towed, because it was parked illegally in the business' parking lot. When the tow truck arrived, the owner approached and admitted to running. He also identified two of the other subjects. He departed after paying the wrecker fee. The officer patrolled the area, but had no further contact with the other subjects.

Andover Water

had been advised by Public Utilities Commission engineer Ray Hammond not to enter any agreement perpetuating Fox's well.

"We can pay for drilling a new well, but we can't guarantee him free water for life, because it's against the law," Emerson said.

Another worry was the implication of using property not belonging to the district.

Emerson said the trustees had been advised previously to acquire ownership of any land to be used for a water supply.

"What we've been told time and time again is own the property," he said.

He said he wasn't sure if the terms of a $500,000 FmHA loan to the district for the project would allow the arrangement with Fox.

"The government may not loan us the money if we don't own the property," he said.

The trustees decided to research both the property ownership and Fox well issues before taking a position on the offer.

Other requirements of Fox's offer included the prohibition of any facilities to be erected above ground level on his property, other than a well pipe; a stipulation regarding the appearance of a pump building that might be erected on property nearby; a requirement that AWD pay to construct a fence, if needed, around the well pipe; and reimbursement for legal fees incurred in the negotiation of the agreement.

An update to the PUC on the progress of testing and site selection is due Sept. 6.

PUC involvement addressed

In a July 22 report, PUC staff and the Public Advocate's office recommended ongoing monitoring of the project.

The recommendation was made because of "the continued high degree of controversy about the Trustees' actions that exists and because past efforts by EPA, DHS and PUC to obtain timely progress reports (either oral or written) of the District's activity have not been successful."

But Esther Lacognata of the Rural Community Assistance Program, speaking on behalf of the trustees in early July, said further Commission involvement after completion of preliminary exploration of the Fox site was not necessary.

New trustee Anne Glazier, in her own letter to the PUC, had recommended the commission be involved until the District was "clearly on track."

Lacognata failed to consult with Glazier before writing on behalf of the trustees. Lacognata took responsibility for the oversight, saying she should have contacted her.

She said her main concern is that the PUC not "micromanage" Water District affairs. "They need to be on a course of administering themselves," she said last week.

A PUC procedural order dated July 26 left open the monitoring issue.

In the same order, the Commission granted a three-month extension of a decision deadline regarding its investigation of the 117 percent customer rate increase.

The increase went into effect in October of 1994, to help finance a new system. But in October of 1995, user Howard Spidell and others asked for a PUC investigation, saying the users were not getting the expected return on the increased fees.

The petitioners agreed to the extension, saying they waived an original requirement that the proceeding be resolved within nine months of the filing of their complaint. The deadline is now Oct. 26.

They said more time is needed to resolve the issue of the least-cost construction of a water source, as well as the Fox property proposal.

Meeting tonight

An informational meeting is scheduled for tonight (Wednesday) at 7 p.m. at the Town Hall to discuss the future of the town's fire hydrants in the Water District, as well as other recent district developments.

District's problems fail to deter its newest director

By ALISON ALOISIO

After getting off to a rough start, new AWD trustee Anne Glazier is now optimistic she can work with the three-member board to solve the town's water supply problems.

A former trustee, however, still has some reservations about how business is being conducted.

Glazier, who was elected to replace Gary Bartlett on May 29, was frustrated for two months in her attempt to meet with fellow-directors Roger Mills and Fred Emerson.

At one point she wrote a letter urging them to make a commitment to meet regularly, or resign from the board.

The meeting on July 25 was the first since Glazier was elected. The trustees agreed at that time to meet on a regular monthly basis -- a move she welcomed.

"I'm hopeful that with regular meetings we can work together and come up with something that can work for Andover," she said last week.

But there may still be some issues to work out, according to Jim Bodwell, a former district trustee and an intervener in the PUC petition investigation.

Bodwell also attended the meeting. He is concerned the trustees may not be spending operating money efficiently, and are not following correct meeting procedure.

At the July 25 meeting, the trustees discussed arrangements for cleaning the current reservoir using heavy equipment. But Bodwell said they should check the need for cleaning more carefully before assuming machinery is needed.

He said machinery was used last year -- at a price tag of about $5,000 -- when a hand cleaning would have been sufficient.

He thinks that may be the case this year, too. He said the bottom of the reservoir appears to be clean now. Glazier also suggested at the meeting that the reservoir might be cleaned by hand.

But Emerson said he wanted no part of hand cleaning. "I won't go near it -- I've been there too many times -- that (using machinery) is the only way I'll be involved in it," he said.

Emerson said the reservoir appeared to be "scummy."

Bodwell is also concerned about meeting procedure. He said the one on the 25th was held without sufficient public notice and included a questionable executive session on a personnel issue. He also said an agenda should be available at the meeting.

Contacted Monday, Mills said he would wait until tonight's informational meeting to comment on any issues regarding the Water District. Emerson could not be reached for comment.

CHRISTIAN WOMEN UNITED

The Christian Women United will hold their monthly meeting at Shorland's Restaurant in Harrison on Tuesday, Aug. 20 at 11:30 a.m. The speaker for the day will be Goldie Welch from Waterford. The music will be furnished by Debbie Andrews of Norway.

Those who have not been contacted but would like a reservation may call Leora Whitney at 743-7221 or Pearl Anderson at 743-5724 by Wednesday, Aug. 14.

MCAL(L)ISTER REUNION

The Mcalister/Mcallister Family Club will hold a reunion on Aug. 10, at the Guy E. Rowe School in Norway. Registration starts at 10 a.m. with the business meeting at 11 a.m.

Participants are asked to bring an item for the flea market, any old pictures or memorabilia that may be displayed. Also, if they wish, bring a cake for the bake contest. There will be a new family cookbook, T-shirts and hats on sale. Norm and Betty Decotease will entertain with their music after lunch. Participants should bring their own lunches, the beverage and dessert will be available.

SAFE HANGOUTS TRIP

The Safe Hangouts of the Western Regional Council on Addictions is sponsoring a Fun Town/Splash Town trip on Aug. 14. The bus departs from Telstar at 9 a.m. and returns at 5:30 p.m. The bus fee is $2 and students are asked to bring their own lunch.

Registration forms are available at the Bethel Town Office, Preb's, Village Store in Woodstock and Dave's Store in Andover. All forms must be returned by Aug. 15 to Western Maine Council on Addictions, 646 West Bethel Road, PO Box 931, Bethel, ME 04217.

But, said Lindley Wieden, a WAAA board member, "that's why they came down on the bus -- because they didn't have transportation. I just think it's sad."

Municipal support lacking

Skibitsky also told selectmen a recent lack of funding from Bethel entered into the decision to discontinue the transportation service.

"Municipal support had to be taken into consideration when the decisions as to cuts were made, and Bethel's non-support of public transportation last year and this year had some bearing in this decision," he said.

But Town Manager Madeleine Henley said that selectmen, faced with a large increase in the number of funding requests by social agencies, now ask them to individually petition the town for funding. Those who do are put on the annual Town Meeting warrant.

"All the ones that petitioned got funding," Henley said. Pine Tree Transit did not submit a petition, which required about 120 signatures.

Skibitsky said Monday he believes requirements by towns such as Bethel are deliberately put in place to discourage agencies from asking for funds, because the petitions are time-consuming and difficult to do.

He said the amount of funds generally received from a municipality are not worth the time invested in a petition drive.

The WAAA also cut back on its own financial support of meal-site transportation services, he said.

If financing in general improves in the future, Skibitsky said, PTT would like to restore service to the Bethel area.

The WAAA had also requested funding from Bethel for its services, but Wieden said a petition that was circulated did not get enough signatures.

He doesn't think much of the petition policy. "They're passing the buck," he said of the selectmen, "instead of giving to the ones they've always given to, and not the new ones. They should give to the tried-and-true organizations they know are worthwhile."

But, said Henley, "who is deserving and who is not is not a decision to be made by proxy. The selectmen didn't feel comfortable deciding."

Beaches

feet wide at its widest point.

Children and their parents using the beach are only a few feet from car and truck traffic on the road. And too often drivers don't bother to slow down as they pass the beach, according to O'Rourke, and people using the beach frequently ignore the "no parking" signs on the beach side of the road.

(Both sides of the road are marked "no parking," but with no place else for beach users to park nearby, the inland side of the roadway has traditionally been used for beach parking.)

O'Rourke urged the selectmen to see if more signs and warnings could be put up along the road.

Darren Buker's mother, Rhonda, also said later that more-visible signs would help prevent incidents like the one in which Darren was hit by the car. She also suggested that poles be set in the sand along the road edge, in order to stop cars that do roll.

At O'Rourke's suggestion a portable toilet is being set up in the illegal parking area on the beach side of the road. "It will block off that inviting parking spot," he said.

Deborah Weaver, who also lives near the beach, suggested a string of floats be run around the edge of the swimming area -- in order to keep motorboats away from swimmers.

"I think we're going to have a serious accident there someday," she told the selectmen.

The selectmen agreed to study the town's options for making the beach area safer, and Town Manager Vern Maxfield said later more signs are likely, "even though MDOT says no one reads them."

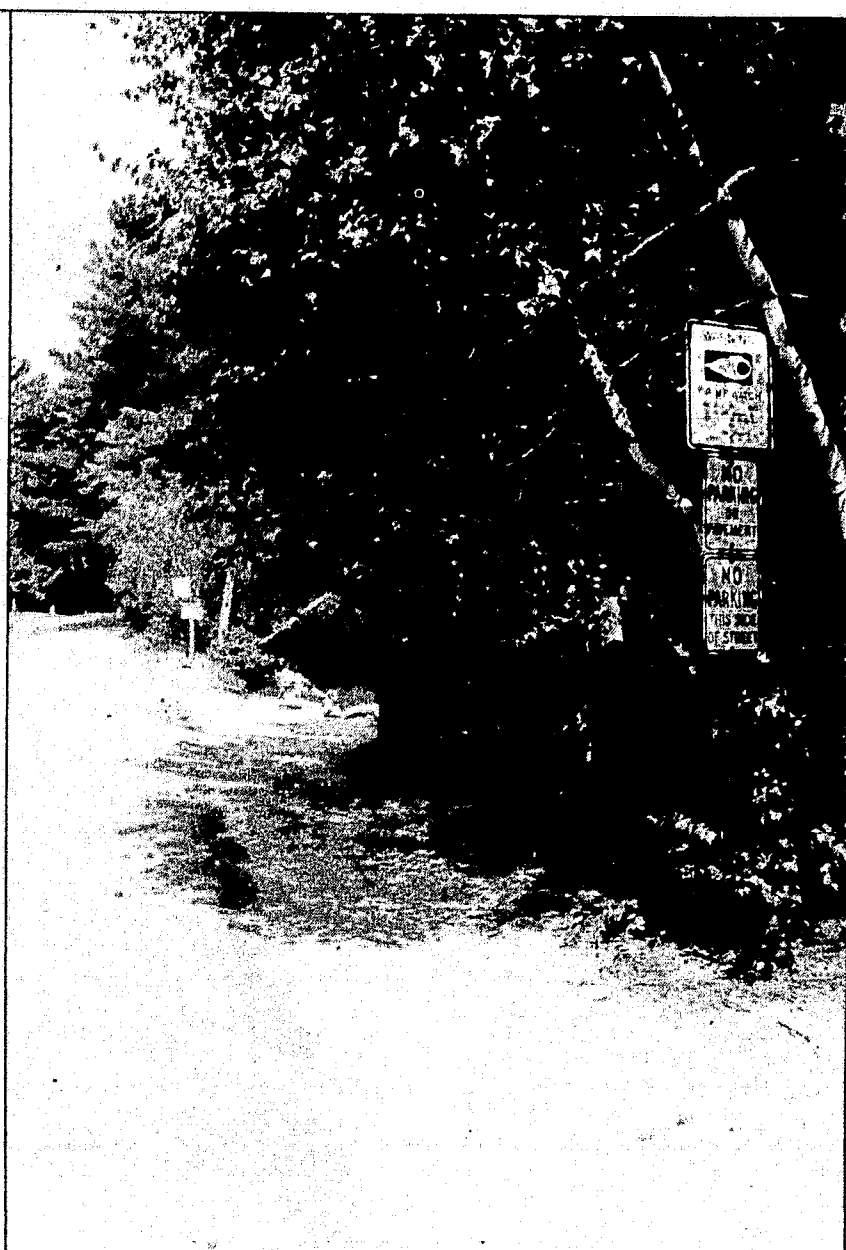

As for the motorboat problem, Maxfield said the town has put floats up in the past, "but someone always steals them."

And he noted that without a town Police Department, it's difficult to enforce regulations at the beach.

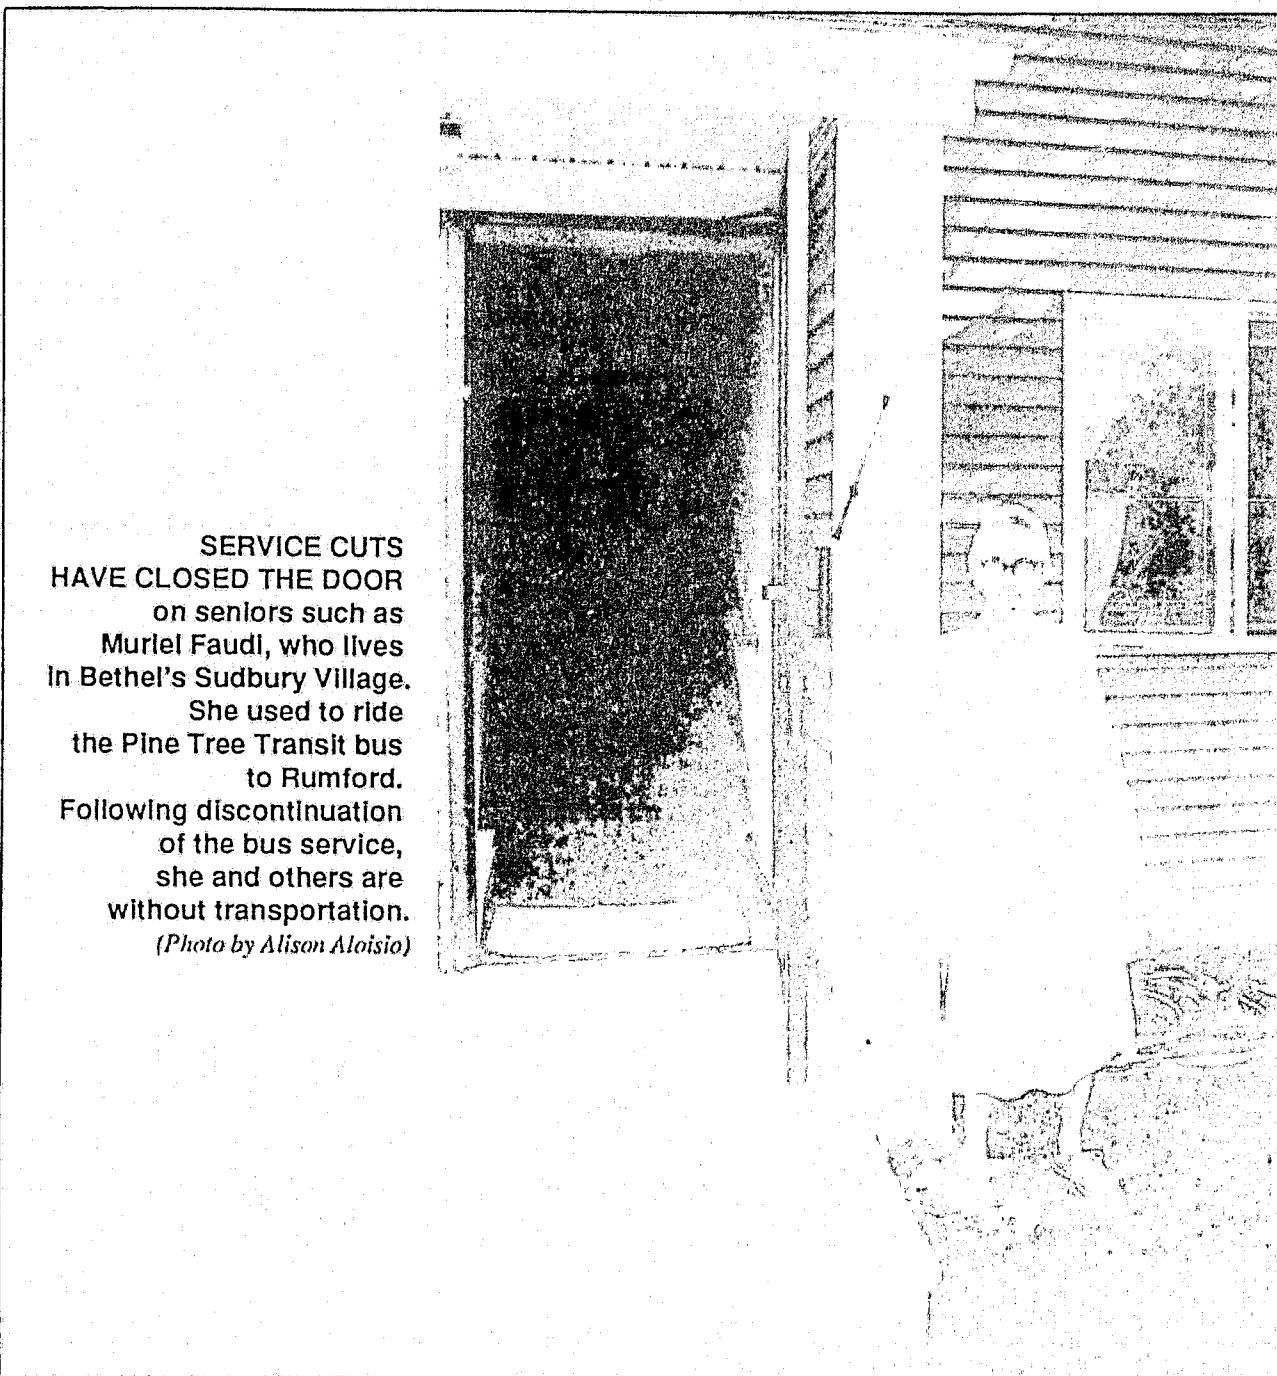

O'Rourke, for his part, said he thought a few more simple steps would greatly improve the situation. "I'm not looking for anyone to get a ticket," he said. "I just want it to be a safe place for the kids."

He added that in cases where people were unable to walk long distances, or when they had small children sleeping in a parked car, he would be willing to let them park on his land.

Capt. Jim Miclon, of the Oxford County Sheriff's Department, said he has instructed patrol deputies to drive by the beach more frequently during the summer, especially Friday through Sunday, when classes at the Maine Conservation School are changing.

BAD COMBINATION—Three recent incidents have raised concerns about safety at the Lake Christopher beach used by many Woodstock residents. In one incident, a car parked illegally on the beach side of the road was knocked out of gear and rolled onto a youngster on the beach. (Photo by Michael Daniels)

SERVICE CUTS HAVE CLOSED THE DOOR on seniors such as Muriel Faudi, who lives in Bethel's Sudbury Village. She used to ride the Pine Tree Transit bus to Rumford. Following discontinuation of the bus service, she and others are without transportation. (Photo by Alison Aloisio)

TIBBETTS REUNION

The descendants of Fred Homer Tibbetts, Sr. held their 5th reunion at Michael and Velzara Tibbetts camp in Upton on Sunday, July 28.

Seventy-seven members attended from Albany, Bethel, New Gloucester, Norway, Poland, Sabattus, South Hiram, South Paris and Standish in Maine, East Templeton, Holden and Spencer in Mass., Berlin and Cascade, NH and South Port, N.C.

The oldest member was a son, Fred Homer Tibbetts of Standish and the youngest was Austin Keith Ryerson of Bethel.

A buffet of grilled meats, corn on the cob, salads and desserts, provided by the families, was enjoyed by all. A 55th Anniversary cake for Ernest and Marjorie Westleigh of Albany was made by Darlene Tibbetts Vail of Norway.

Games of volleyball, badminton and horseshoes were played. Swimming and boat rides on Lake Umbagog were enjoyed by many. The rest of us just sat around enjoying the weather and getting reacquainted.

TROOPER APPLICATIONS

Maine State Police have begun accepting applications for the position of state trooper.

Col. Alfred R. Skofield, chief of the State Police said, "We're looking for motivated men and women prepared for challenge and committed to serving the people of Maine." Applications will be accepted until Aug. 23. The successful applicants will begin training at the State Police Academy next July.

The minimum qualifications for state trooper include a high school diploma or equivalent, no major criminal or motor vehicle record and applicants must be age 21 by July 1, 1997.

Successful applicants will earn $9 an hour while attending the academy and $11.26 an hour following graduation. Top pay for troopers is $31,616 annually.

Skofield said there are 320 sworn officers in the State Police, with seven known retirements before the end of the year. Two troopers, Mark Brooks and Christopher Coleman, will assist with the recruiting process during August.

Applications may be obtained from any Maine Job Service Office or from the Maine Bureau of Human Resources, State House Station 4, Augusta, ME 04333. Additional information on the application process is available from the State Police's Personnel Office in Augusta at 624-7056.

Conservation volunteers sought

Maine's natural resource agencies are looking for help from volunteers and interns. SERVE/Maine matches volunteers and interns with conservation projects for public agencies.

Some of the volunteer and internship opportunities available through SERVE/Maine include water-quality monitoring for the Department of Marine Resources, naturalist photography, legal advising, public relations, campground maintenance, data entry, office support and computer consulting for various natural resource agencies, back country trail work with the Maine Conservation Corps, environmental education for the Department of Environmental Protection and many more.

SERVE/Maine volunteers and interns often include retirees who want to give their time to conservation programs, teachers who want to volunteer over their summer vacations, employees of businesses which promote the contribution of time and energy to their communities, college students looking for valuable experience as interns with Maine's conservation agencies, sports clubs, environmental organizations and others who care about Maine's environment.

"SERVE/Maine is looking for volunteers and interns throughout the state for the more than 35 projects that public and natural resource agencies are trying to accomplish this year," said Maria Zando, SERVE/Maine volunteer coordinator.

To get a list of opportunities or more information about SERVE/Maine, contact Zando at 124 State House Station, Augusta, ME 04333-0124. Telephone 207-287-4931, FAX 207-287-3611, or find the SERVE/Maine web site at <http://www.state.me.us/spo/mccs>.

SWIM PROGRAM WRAPS UP

The Bethel Recreation Swim program concluded on July 26 after four weeks of instruction. Classes taught ranged from infant/toddler/preschool through level five (stroke refinement).

Beth LaVallee, water safety instructor, and Marcy LaVallee, water safety aide, provided instruction to 50 Bethel area children.

All participants who registered in the program received recognition on the last day. The infants/toddler/preschoolers earned Longfellow's Whale Tales diplomas.

Level 1-2 participants received a record of learning skills and a book called "Waddles Presents Aquatic Safety."

Level 3-5 also received a record of learning skills. Those students who successfully completed all the required skills received a Red Cross certificate. Parents who were unable to be at Songo Pond on July 26 may pick up their children's awards at the Bethel town office.

Ivy Philbrook once again generously donated the use of her beach; to community volunteers led by Alberta and Neil Merrill, who helped with the physical setting up and tearing down of the dock facilities and in many other ways; to the Rec board; to the parents who faithfully brought their children to swimming lessons and lastly to the youngsters who "jumped in" despite the weather.

cheese, peanut butter & jelly, and brownies and drinks were served by the Ladies Auxiliary. The sandwiches were made by Brenda Wight, Nancy Wight, Caron Cormier, Sylvia Harrington and yours truly, Kurt Wight, Brenda's son, helped with the printing of the type of the sandwich on the bags.

Newry Community Church services were held on Sunday with Pastor Rodney Hunscom at the pulpit and daughter Nancy at the organ. The message of the day: "The bargain of a lifetime" from Psalm 40:1. "I waited patiently for the Lord, and he inclined unto me, and heard my cry." A guest, Rev. Patrick J. McGill D.M. of West Sumner, told us about his experiences during the war, and prayed for all the world. There was also a special by Gil Seeley, "Let us pray." Coffee was served and goodies were enjoyed after the service.

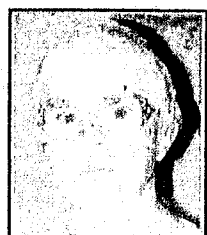

Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Gil Seeley, Irene Hadfield and Doris Parent were at the Oxford Lanes one day last week, bowling for fun. On the overall scores, Betsy was high on the singles with one string of 105. She was also high on the triples. She had three spares and two strikes. Karlene had two spares and Doris and Gil one spare each.

Norman Tetley's brother and his wife were visitors of the Tetley's over the week of July 28.

Historical Society news: be sure to examine the books on Woodstock history that Ruby Emery gave the society. No one else studied our town as extensively as she did. Her dedication and thoughtful research will be greatly missed by the members. Curator Larry Billings has given a decorated tin and a large collection of art over the past few years. Do notice the fine art collection when you visit the museum.

Larry Billings also gave a souvenir plate from New Hampshire to the Bethel Historical Society recently, in honor of Bethel's Bicentennial. Their society collects materials on the White Mountains. Thanks to all who have watched the museum this summer. Curator Larry Billings claims, "Culture is the substance of civilization." He has been very active in promoting culture in our area. The historical society is interested in community betterment. The society's board of trustees suggested donating a little money each year to worthy projects.

Greetings! Thank you, thank you sun! Upton has had some beautiful sunny days. Lots of boaters, kayaks and canoes around soaking up the rays.

The Tibbetts' had a family reunion at their camp. Seventy-seven people attended the BBQ. The day included fun-filled activities such as boat rides, tube rides and much more.

Some people hadn't seen each other for 30 to 40 years.

Julia (Edwards) Martinez returned to the area from New York City. She lived here and worked at the Fred Judkins store from 1977-1979. She enjoyed the mountain air and was hoping to see a moose. Julia and her husband are expecting a baby in January. She reads the Citizen weekly. Thanks for your support. We'll be thinking of you in January. Let us know what you deliver.

Lillian Fuller Rose was in town with her grandson and daughter. She's a cousin to Colin and Leslie Fuller. They had a Fuller reunion in Mexico.

North Woodstock

by Shane Lillings

A hymn sing was held at the North Woodstock Meeting House last week. These events have proven to be very popular over the past couple of years and are a great way for people to get together.

Alison Chapman arrives home today for a two week visit. I am really looking forward to seeing her, as the telephone has provided our only means of communication throughout the past year. My uncle Jeff Mills is also home for a week long visit, along with his wife and kids. They currently reside in Arizona.

Michelle McInnis is attending field hockey camp and sister Mandy is life guarding for a week.

My mom and I attended a performance of the musical "Evita" in Brunswick last week. The cast was stellar, and every song was great.

Jason Billings arrived home from Maine Media Camp, while Bridget Billings visited her friend Jenn Shaw. Bridget and Joelle Silver celebrated their birthdays this past week. That's all from North Woodstock!

but the weather man says there are more showers to come.

Last Monday Doc Merrill came up for dinner and a visit. Peggy had invited him to come for a celebration of his birthday, which was actually the 24th, when he became 88 years young. Being quite fond of pie, Peggy made him a birthday pie instead of a cake.

Peggy's granddaughter, Justine Still, husband Mike and three daughters Marissa, 7, Celine, 5, and Rochelle 7 months, all flew to Maine for a visit.

The Michael Still family came for dinner and a visit on Wednesday. They are spending the week at a camp owned by Tom and Samantha Murch on McWain Pond in Waterford. Samantha is also one of Peggy's granddaughters.

This was Celine's fifth birthday and Peggy made a doll cake for both of the older girls.

Matters of Health

From Boston University Medical Center

GUM DISEASE: The individual plays a major role in prevention

I am a 25-year-old male, and though I brush my teeth two to three times a day, my gums have recently started bleeding a little when I brush. I switched to a soft-bristle brush, but that hasn't stopped the bleeding. I try to get to the dentist at least once a year, and I don't think I'm old enough to have dental problems. Do you know why I might be having this bleeding?

Bleeding gums should be taken seriously at any age. They are one of the signs that can indicate periodontal, or gum disease, a disease that has replaced cavities as America's number one adult tooth problem. Though your teeth may be fine, periodontal disease, if untreated, can lead to bone, and eventually, tooth loss. The good news is that you can play a major role in preventing gum disease. This preventive process should begin in childhood.

Periodontal disease affects the gums and the supporting structures (the roots) of the teeth. The disease first manifests itself as gingivitis, and, later, if it is allowed to advance, as periodontitis. Bleeding gums are often an indication of gingivitis. Other indications of the condition are red, swollen or tender gums. Though there is little discomfort at this stage, there is still danger. If not treated properly, gingivitis can lead to periodontitis, which can cause irreversible damage to the gums and bone surrounding the teeth.

With periodontitis, the bone and tissues that support the teeth gradually are destroyed. As the gum and bone are eaten away, pockets form around the teeth and fill with infectious germs. As periodontitis progresses, teeth become loose and may eventually fall out or require extraction. Periodontitis is a slow-progressing disease, so the earlier it is detected, the better the chances are of being treated successfully. Symptoms of periodontitis include:

loose or separating teeth, pus between the teeth and gums, persistent bad breath, and a change in the way the teeth fit together when a person bites.

The major cause of gum disease is bacterial plaque -- a sticky, colorless film that constantly forms on teeth. You can keep your teeth and gums free of plaque buildup by brushing at least three times daily and flossing between all of your teeth each day. Not only does brushing remove plaque, but it removes calculus, or tartar, as well. Many periodontists recommend using an electric toothbrush, for those who can afford one. Over-the-counter plaque removal rinses, such as Plax, are also recommended. There are rinses designed specifically for children, also. Gum disease can also be caused by a diet low in nutrients, which can diminish your body's efforts to fight infection. Stress can also affect your ability to ward off disease. Reducing or eliminating the use of tobacco in its smoking or chewing form is also a good way to reduce the risk of gum disease. Tobacco use, too, compromises the body's immunity, including the immunity to bacteria in the mouth.

Though daily brushing and floss-
